

Robinson Crusoe made a calendar from a post. Every day he cut a notch in the post with his knife. Then he could always tell how long he had been away from his English home.